DUGGAN CORONER RAISES CONCERNS

Report cites 'lessons to be learned' following fatal shooting inquest

THE coroner who presided over the Mark Duggan shooting inquest has listed a series of concerns about the case.

High Court Judge Keith Cutler last week produced a report following the conclusion of the inquest, which ruled that Mr Duggan, 29, was lawfully killed by a police marksman in Ferry Lane, Tottenham, on August 4, 2011.

Officers stopped a minicab in which Mr Duggan, of Rowland Hill Avenue, Tottenham, was travelling in the belief that he was armed.

The fatal shooting led to the riots which broke out in Tottenham two days later and spread across London and to other areas of the country.

A coroner is required by law to produce a report about anything that is revealed in the course of an inquest which raises concern that circumstances creating a risk of other deaths will exist in the future, and to advise what action should be taken to prevent this.

In his 43-page "Report to Prevent Future Deaths", Judge Cutler listed eight areas of concern, including a lack of video recording of the police operation and the scene of the shooting, and the way officers' reports are produced.

He also said that the restrictions on who can see intelligence leading up to an undercover police operation mean that shooting deaths cannot be investigated fully.

Judge Cutler noted that following the shooting, only the officer who fired the fatal shot, known as V53, was asked to give an account at the scene, with others doing so up to three days later.

The coroner expressed concerns about police collusion in reports and that detail was left out.

He said: "I am concerned that fatal police shootings are not as rigorously examined as they could be and that doubts about the accuracy of police reports are not minimised.

"Lessons learned after a death should be as complete as possible."

Judge Cutler noted that the "delay in taking statements created a real risk of evidence being lost" – and he added that "the fact of the officers gathering in a room for many hours to compile statements created a perception of collusion".

The coroner raised concerns about the way the shooting scene was managed and noted that even though the Independent Police Complaints Commission had primacy there, "it does not have its own crime scene managers".

The inquest relied heavily on evidence from the scene, but Judge Cutler said the way it was handled led to a risk that it "could be compromised". He said that police should have started a video recording of both the immediate and wider scene immediately, noting that any distrust "could have been avoided had the scene been video recorded in the period between the shooting and the arrival of a police helicopter".

Judge Cutler also said that had the firearms officers "been wearing video cameras, the jury would have known precisely what happened around the time Mark Duggan was shot".

In a final concern, Judge Cutler said the fact that only certain people could see certain evidence meant that the inquest was hampered somewhat. He noted: "As I have indicated, there was intelligence relevant to Mark Duggan's death which the jury could not see.

"A senior police officer, in an independent police service, from whom the IPCC thought it necessary to get an expert an opinion, was not so permitted. That prevented her from forming a fully-formed view about the planning of the operation.

"I would have liked to have put her report before the jury and to call her to give evidence, but did not do so because she had not seen the intelligence picture."

Judge Cutler added: "Although I was allowed to see the evidence, my leading counsel was not, despite holding the highest security clearance."

The Metropolitan Police issued a statement in response to Judge Cutler's report, saying that a number of procedures had changed since 2011.

Addressing the concern about officers colluding on their reports, it said: "The conferring warning is a warning given to officers reminding them they should not confer and if they do so they have to write down where, with whom, why and on what subjects they conferred.

"They are also warned they must not confer on their own use of force.

"The post-incident procedure is the nationally agreed procedure that takes place following a police shooting."

Two new faces as Haringey Council confirms cabinet

TWO newly-elected Labour councillors have been confirmed as members of Haringey Council's cabinet.

Jason Arthur, who represents Crouch End ward, and St Ann's ward member Peter Morton were confirmed as part of the nine-strong executive at the council's annual meeting on Monday evening.

That is one more cabinet member than during the previous Labour administration, with Mr Arthur's portfolio of resources and culture a newly-created one.

Mr Morton is cabinet member for health and well-being, with Stuart McNamara (Bruce Grove) taking on the environment portfolio and Ali Demirci (Bounds Green) in charge of planning.

Claire Kober (Seven Sisters) remains as council leader, with Bernice Vanier (Tottenham Green) as her deputy, as well as taking on the communities brief.

Alan Strickland (Noel Park) retains his role as member for housing and regeneration, with Ann Waters (Woodside) keeping her children and families portfolio.

Joe Goldberg (Seven Sisters) will deal with economic development, social inclusion and sustainability, with his portfolio slightly changed from the previous administration due to the creation of Mr Arthur's role.

Kaushika Amin has been elected as the new mayor of Haringey, succeeding fellow Northumberland Park Labour ward councillor Sheila Peacock.

Her mayoral charity will be Haringey Citizens' Advice Bureau.

Meanwhile, Haringey Liberal Democrats have chosen Crouch End councillor Sarah Elliott as their new group leader.

Tories' new leader blasts move to cut council 'democracy'

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE new leader of the Conservative group on Enfield Council has kicked off his stint heading up the opposition by launching a broadside at plans to axe swathes of democratic services.

Terry Neville, who was chosen to lead the opposition of 22 Conservative councillors last week, has hit out at what he describes as "party political" changes to the make-up of the council.

In a report from James Rolfe, the director of finance, resources and customer services – due to be presented and voted on at the full council meeting tonight – officers have recommended a raft of cost-saving measures which would see individual scrutiny committees scrapped in favour of a single overarching overview and scrutiny committee, which would have specific "work streams" to examine crime and disorder and health and well-being.

In addition to the bonfire of the committees, the proposals involve getting rid of area forums, and replacing them with meetings organised by ward councillors without involvement from council officers.

"This is a loss of the key democratic process," said Mr Neville, pictured. "Decisions will be taken by officers and will not be held up to scrutiny. Decisions will be taken by cabinet members, but they will bypass the process of accountability."

"Losing area forums means that councillors will be left to do pretty much what they want within their wards with no officer support. They say this is a money-saving process, but why are the costings not included in this report?"

There will, however, be a boost to the number of cabinet posts as the report proposes creating three associate members, each of whom will be responsible for one third of the borough and, according to the report, will "promote the new approach to ward level engagement by members".

However, Mr Neville told this paper: "This is an abuse of power, it is an abuse of process."

"My concern is that these three posts have been created for party political purposes as they align with parliamentary constituencies."

However, Achilleas Georgiou, deputy leader of the council, said that the three areas were "not the same as the parliamentary constituencies".

"We were mindful that they have to relate to the major planning area partnerships in the borough," he added.

Council leader Doug Taylor, who swept back to power with a 19-seat majority, told the Advertiser that his counterpart should be "concerned with proper and effective scrutiny of the council".

"These changes are designed to improve democracy," he said. "It is important that we use the resources as effectively and as efficiently as possible."

Three join as cabinet posts get a reshuffle

THREE newcomers have joined the ranks of the decision-making body with the future of the borough in their hands.

The cabinet positions themselves have been rejigged with the post of health and well-being merging with youth and leisure to create a new portfolio of culture, sport, youth and public health, which will be overseen by Rohini Simbodyal, ward councillor for Jubilee.

Yasemin Brett, ward councillor for Bowes, has been given the newly-created post of cabinet member for community organisations.

With former cabinet member for regeneration Del Goddard not standing in last month's local elections, veteran environmental campaigner Alan Sitkin is the third new face in the cabinet, responsible for economic development.

Three associate cabinet members with responsibility for liaising with planning partnerships will be formally announced at tonight's full council meeting.

There will now be three women in the cabinet – an increase of one from 2010-2014.

Deputy council leader Achilleas Georgiou said that he was looking forward to the "new ideas" the team would contribute.

"We have some great new people and they are going to bring new life and new ideas to the council," he said. "There always needs to be a level of renewal and we welcome the three new members."

Parents disgusted after discovering racist graffiti on morning school run

String of offensive messages were daubed on path close to primary

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

PARENTS have expressed their outrage over a string of racist slurs which were daubed in graffiti near a primary school in Enfield Lock.

The slogans, which included "F immigrants go home", "Whites not welcome", "Freeloader EU scum" and "Enfield Council loves an immigrant"(sic), were found on paths around Prince of Wales Primary School, in Salisbury Road, on Wednesday morning last week.

An investigation has been launched by Enfield Police.

Parents were confronted with the abuse during the morning school run, but the graffiti was not removed until lunchtime on Thursday.

Jasmin Nathan said many children and parents were upset and criticised the fact that the graffiti was not erased more quickly.

The mother told the Advertiser: "How it still remained on the school path beggars belief, particularly when parents have been very vocal to school staff about their concerns.

"The school is multicultural and this has offended pretty much everybody in some way.

"The school and council have a duty of care towards our children to ensure they don't have to see racial abuse scrawled across the school path."

Father-of-five Jonathan Oscar Mwale, who has two children at the school, said: "This is obscene, and I have never experienced anything like this before.

"There are no problems here – all the parents get on very well no matter where they come from."

Mother-of-two Kirsty McIntyre, 26, added: "This is so disrespectful, children should not have to see anything like that."

Enfield Council said that it had removed the graffiti as a matter of urgency.

A spokeswoman added: "We have a large, multicultural and harmonious community in Enfield which embraces its diversity.

"Racism of any form is unwelcome in this borough.

"We'd like to thank the school for bringing this matter to our attention and enabling us to deal with it promptly.

"We have reported this matter to the police, who are investigating it."

No arrests have been made so far and police are appealing for information. Anyone who can help is being asked to contact Enfield Police on 101, quoting reference 5212197/14, or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Under investigation: Police officers are looking into the racist messages which appeared on paths close to a primary school in Enfield Lock and were removed following complaints by parents

Teenager found not guilty of murdering fellow 17-year-old

Single stab wound: Joshua Folkes

A TEENAGER standing trial for the murder of Joshua Folkes in Palmers Green last year has been found not guilty.

The 17-year-old boy, who cannot be named for legal reasons, was acquitted by a jury at the Old Bailey on Friday.

That was a week after two other men, Hali Ankay, 18, of Masefield Crescent, Southgate, and Kreshnik Etemi, 18, of Muswell Hill, north London, were also acquitted on the direction of Judge Christopher Moss QC, who said there was insufficient evidence on which to try them.

Joshua was 17 when he died from a single stab wound to the chest in the early hours of December 3 last year after being attacked outside a friend's house.

The 17-year-old had denied murder on the grounds of lawful self-defence.

During the course of the trial the court had heard that tensions had been growing between the two teenagers since Halloween night, October 31, when an argument broke out over Rizla papers.

RAF man's memorabilia recalls D-Day

By Koos Cuvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

EXACTLY 70 years after the invasion that launched the liberation of Europe from Nazi rule, the son of a D-Day veteran was delighted to find his father's war memorabilia while clearing out his loft.

Chris Jowitt, 66, of Athenia Close, Goffs Oak, came across medals, photographs and other items his father Joseph had kept from his time as a radio operator with the Royal Air Force's special 554B unit during World War II.

As dawn broke on June 6, 1944, the first of more than 150,000 Allied troops stormed the Normandy beaches under a hail of German artillery. By sunset there were 10,000 casualties.

It marked the start of an epic two-month battle, one that saw more than 200,000 Allied soldiers die, wounded, or go missing in action.

Joseph Jowitt, 23 at the time, landed on Juno Beach just hours after it had been captured by the Allies.

During the following 11 months, he moved eastwards towards Berlin just behind the front, establishing mobile communication posts.

Using a mobile radio, the young Yorkshireman's job was to send Morse code messages back to England and to Allied planes, passing on intelligence of vital importance in the battle against the Nazis.

Joseph's journey took him through France and ended in Berlin. At the liberated Bergen-Belsen concentration camp in April 1945, he witnessed at first hand the horrors of the Holocaust.

On the back of a photograph of a mass grave, he wrote: "A modern communal grave on best German standards in the year 1945. Is civilization rotting?"

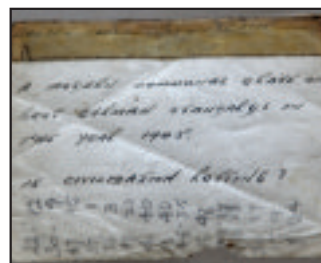

In 1950, the RAF veteran and his wife Eva, who served in the Women's Auxiliary Air Force during the war, settled in Windmill Hill, Enfield.

The couple had two sons, Chris and Philip, and later moved to Swan Way, Brimsdown, where Joseph died in 1987, aged 65.

Chris said: "My father never talked about the war much, but did write some memoirs. Fortunately, much of what he

...and residents remember war efforts

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

PENSIONERS gathered on Friday to share their memories of World War II at an event to commemorate the 70th anniversary of the D-Day invasion.

Residents of Reardon Court, a supported housing scheme run by Enfield Council, in Cosgrove Close, Winchmore Hill, took a trip back in time with an afternoon of song, dance and performance.

Anniversary waltz: The afternoon included dancing, right, while Bill Hicks, below with mayor Chaudhury Anwar, recalled his service in the Royal Navy

The residents recalled those days when they were part of the war effort.

Bill Hicks, 88, who was serving on a Royal Navy destroyer in the southern Atlantic, said: "I missed the invasion because I was stationed on convoy duties in the Atlantic."

"I was with the finest men you will ever find. But the men who went on to the beaches in Normandy were absolutely the greatest. They knew what they were going into and yet none of them shirked from their duty."

"It was terrifying and they walked into it. If I was to live another life, it would be alongside the same men."

Soldier Norman Tilley added: "Don't think about me, think about my mates. They're down there."

The pensioners were entertained and belted out a series of classic songs including Run Rabbit Run, by Flanagan and Allen, Roll Out The Barrel, by the Cockney Guv'nors, and The Lambeth Walk, by Robin Rose.

They were joined by the mayor of Enfield, Chaudhury Anwar, who was performing his last duty before his year finished.

He told the residents: "It's been a great pleasure to stand here to listen to some of your D-Day memories. Many harrowing accounts of that time stir our thoughts and our own personal memories."

"We cannot underestimate the price that was paid at those battles on the Normandy beaches and it is only right that we remember and learn about them."

Patients face year's delay for surgery

Data recording errors mean significant numbers have not appeared on 18-week waiting list

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

AT least 180 patients have been waiting for more than a year for surgery at Barnet and Chase Farm hospitals, it has been revealed.

The figure is published in a report compiled by the Clinical Commissioning Group of Barnet.

The report also stated that other data indicates there are currently 2,200 patients at the hospitals' trust who have waited more than 18 weeks for an operation – and that it could take until late next year before the backlog is cleared.

It is unclear how many patients at the trust, which administers Chase Farm, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, are waiting for surgery.

That is because it was discovered last year that the trust had a "major data quality problem", meaning significant numbers of patients were not being recorded and monitored as having waited longer than the target of 18 weeks after being referred for surgery.

NHS referral to treatment standards say that 90 per cent of admitted and 95 per cent of non-admitted patients should start consultant-led treatment within that time.

A "major data quality recovery exercise" has begun, but the report stated that the "process has been more complex than initially envisaged" and said that it could take until the autumn before the trust has any clarity about accurate numbers.

It expressed concern about this delay, as well as the fact that even though more than 1,000 patients had been treated by other providers, the numbers waiting for procedures had not "materially reduced".

Alev Cazimoglu pictured, the former chairwoman of Enfield Council's health and well-being scrutiny panel, said: "This is a completely unacceptable state of affairs. People are waiting for surgery and their conditions are getting worse."

"With constant cuts to, and reorganisation of, the service, it is all over the place. There is not enough focus on care and the day-to-day patient experience."

The trust said it had been "working hard" to resolve the situation and in recent months it had put on additional clinics and operating theatre sessions and asked other hospitals to treat patients who had been waiting for a long time.

A spokeswoman for the hospital said: "We are extremely sorry that some patients are experiencing delays to their treatment."

"Patients should be assured that a delay in reporting does not prevent the day-to-day work of treating patients who have been waiting too long."

Alev Cazimoglu pictured, the former chairwoman of Enfield Council's health and well-being scrutiny panel, said: "This is a completely unacceptable state of affairs. People are waiting for surgery and their conditions are getting worse."

Royal Free boss: David Sloman

Delays: Chase Farm Hospital

Royal Free's takeover of Chase Farm is approved by hospitals trust bosses

THE Royal Free is set to take over Chase Farm Hospital after its trust's board and council of governors gave the go-ahead to final plans for the acquisition last week.

It is still subject to approval by Jeremy Hunt, Secretary of State for Health, but that is expected to be given later this month.

That means, from July 1, Chase Farm, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, will be part of the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust, along with Barnet Hospital.

Monitor, the health service regulator, approved the proposed takeover last week after carrying out a four-month assessment of the business case.

Royal Free chief executive David Sloman said: "I am delighted that the board and council of governors have approved the acquisition."

"We are now entering a new, exciting stage in the history of the Royal Free."

"Clinicians and managers from both trusts have spent a long time looking at how an expanded organisation will be able to provide even better services for our patients that are also more efficient for the taxpayer."

"Our aim is to improve care across all three sites and to provide world-class care closer to patients' homes."

The takeover is another milestone in the turbulent recent history of Chase Farm, which lost its accident and emergency and maternity units last year as part of the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Clinical Strategy.

Earlier this year it was revealed that the Royal Free is in discussions with Enfield Council planning officials about selling part of the Chase Farm site and redeveloping services across a smaller site in new accommodation.

Alev Cazimoglu, the former chairwoman of the council's health and well-being scrutiny panel, expressed concern about the future of Chase Farm.

She said: "It took the Royal Free a long time to be open about the acquisition and the proposed land sales, and about its commitment to developing services. They say they are committed to the clinical strategy, but once the new organisation is in operation, as a foundation trust they can pretty much do as they wish."

"The fact is that there is no longer any control from within Enfield over services at the hospital, and that is worrying."

Pathetic male macho practice

CAN there be anything more selfish and antisocial than the barbecue?

Not only were we driven indoors on Sunday by great clouds of acrid smoke billowing across our back garden (and beyond), but clothes drying on our washing line had to be taken indoors and eventually washed again as they reeked of the smell.

If people must indulge in this rather pathetic macho male practice (have you ever seen a woman operating a barbecue?), please have the common courtesy to warn neighbours, particularly if washing is visible.

And remember that barbecues are dangerous because of the pollution thrown into the atmosphere: the carcinogenic poisons – heterocyclic amines in charred meat and polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons in the smoke that result from animal fats falling on hot coals – and toxins that are absorbed by the food as well as affecting the lungs, particularly of the chef.

Charring also produces advanced glycation end products, which accumulate in the body organs and are associated with cellular stress and ageing.

Eating outside can be a pleasure, but why not prepare the food indoors in the kitchen and then take it out there?

Patients asked for their views

HEALTHWATCH Enfield would like to hear from people who have been discharged from hospital recently and feel that things could have been managed better.

We want to know if you, or the person who cares for you, was given enough information about the process.

Was everything ready to support you when you got home?

If you went from hospital into a care home, was there enough time to make a choice about where to go?

Have you been discharged from hospital only to find yourself back there within a few weeks?

Please call 020 8373 6283 or email info@healthwatchenfield.co.uk and let us know about your experience.

Residential streets are now overnight rat runs

I AM writing this at a silly hour – half past midnight – because I have been woken again by the ridiculous number of vehicles racing down Arnold Gardens and turning into my road.

There are vehicles of every size and shape, including large HGVs unable to turn the corner, so they need to reverse several times, always using their beeping reverse sirens, too.

Not only does this wake me up, but the loud noises outside also wake up my two-year-old boy.

It is summer, so our windows are open – does this mean we can't do this?

Why should we be forced to shut our windows due to someone's stupid decision about diverting most of the North Circular down residential streets?

Even with the windows closed, the noise and vibrations of so many cars and HGVs are a constant disturbance.

I cannot believe this will continue until the end of 2015.

I am eight and half months pregnant with my second child and the constant disturbance is not good for me at all.

I get up exhausted due to being woken up or kept awake by the traffic chaos on our roads.

Please, please stop this nonsense and consider the repercussions it is having on the residents of these roads.

Anna Morris
Chimes Avenue,
Palmer's Green

☐ THE Fore Street tunnel is now closed every week night from 10pm until 5am until October 2015.

I am very worried as we cannot live with such horrendous noise and traffic disturbances for that long a period. We are being treated like animals in a zoo.

I cannot be the only person who is fed up with the disturbance through our tiny roads.

All it would take is for one simple emergency barrier to be installed permanently at the end of Chimes Avenue, where it meets Hazelwood Lane, and the whole problem of our clusters of small residential streets being used as rat runs would stop completely.

I am not a silly resident with nothing better to do than complain. It would be nice to have a quiet evening without the need for earplugs.

Let's increase people's awareness of dementia

PEOPLE are living longer and as a result there may be an increase in the number of people suffering from dementia or Alzheimer's disease.

The local authority is doing everything it can to promote awareness, in partnership with the Alzheimer's Society. There should be a constant drive in promoting awareness, both within the community and at schools, as this will help to prepare people when faced with someone within the family who has been diagnosed with dementia.

Knowing how to cope will make life less stressful for sufferers and those who live with them.

People with dementia can live a normal life and need more understanding from those around them.

Many schools already have dementia awareness as a regular subject. The government should recognise this and give financial help to local authorities in getting a programme of dementia awareness off the ground.

This practice will also lead to more understanding and improve quality of life all round.

Ex councillor considers his legal options

RE: "Ex-councillor Joannides found to have 'failed to treat people with respect regardless of their race and religion'" (Advertiser, June 4).

I wish to object strongly to the methodology and the principal findings of the committee against me and make it clear that I am currently considering my legal options, including a complaint to the Local Government Ombudsman and other possible legal challenges.

For one, I strongly disagree with the assertion that writing on my private Facebook wall was an "activity carried out as a member of the council", or that I was representing the council in any way in using Facebook.

Further, this matter was investigated thoroughly in the summer of 2013 by the Metropolitan Police, who decided not to take action against me based, I believe, on the unreliability of the evidence.

Unfortunately, I believe that I have consistently been subjected to trial by media, who have found me to be guilty of wrongdoing without giving a fair consideration of the evidence.

The timing of the committee's investigation is also worrying. I had no reason to believe that the conduct committee was going to take any action against me until I was re-selected as a Conservative candidate for the May 2014 local elections.

I do, however, welcome the fact that the majority of the Facebook material in question has now been disregarded by the committee, which accords with the Metropolitan Police investigation, and I consider vindication in part.

While I consider my legal options, I will not be making any further legal statement regarding this matter.

Chris Joannides
Former Grange ward councillor

Here's an idea to save the council £800k

COUNCILLOR George Savva's rather ungracious letter last week concerning the Conservative group's proposal to cut the number of councillors was interesting for a number of reasons.

Firstly, during the election campaign I spoke with a number of residents who said that they hoped their politicians would act with humility and seek to work together for the good of Enfield.

While there will always be differences in politics, that is a sentiment I intend to follow as a councillor for Chase ward.

Unfortunately, the stance taken just days after the election by Mr Savva shows some in the council chamber might pursue an agenda of political point-scoring rather than constructively working together for the good of the community.

The second reason I found his letter interesting was his complete dismissal about proposals to cut the number of councillors.

There is an enormous shortfall in the council's budget for the forthcoming years as the previous administration elected in 2010 kicked every tough decision into the long grass.

This will mean cuts are coming – and it is our belief that councillors should lead from the front and the number of politicians in Enfield should be reduced.

Cutting one councillor from each ward would save the Enfield taxpayer £800,000 over a four-year period.

Surely this proposal should at least be considered?

Nick Dines
Conservative councillor
Chase ward

Distraction burglars jailed

A WOMAN who tricked her way into the homes of two elderly men in a sheltered housing scheme has been jailed for stealing from them.

Fortunata Paczkowska, 30, of Bury Street, Edmonton, was sentenced to a total of five years behind bars at Snaresbrook Crown Court on Thursday last week after pleading guilty on May 22 to two counts of burglary.

Accomplice Deborah Arthur, 43, of no fixed address, was jailed for three and a half years after admitting one count of burglary.

Paczowska and Arthur used the intercom to enter the sheltered housing scheme in Stamford Hill, north London, at about 8pm on January 26.

Once inside, they tried to convince a number of residents to let them into their flats by asking them to read a letter.

A 79-year-old man allowed them inside and the pair stole several items including cash and credit cards.

The women were caught on CCTV and after the images were circulated in the local press, officers were contacted by a reader who identified Paczkowska.

The women were arrested on February 13. Paczkowska was also charged with the distraction burglary of a 91-year-old man on March 8 at the same housing scheme.

Detective Constable Anwen Clissold, from Hackney police's east area detections team, said: "These two women were clearly trying to target a number of residents at the location."

"I hope this case highlights the willingness of the public to help us identify offenders."

Behind bars: Fortunata Paczkowska, left, and Deborah Arthur were jailed for burglary

Woman remanded on murder charge

A WOMAN has been charged with the murder of another woman in Edmonton earlier this month.

Ayse Asim, 47, of Langhedge Lane, Edmonton, was remanded in custody when she appeared at the Old Bailey yesterday.

A date for a plea and case management hearing was set for July 29.

She is accused of the murder of 20-year-old Floarea Nicolae, who was found in a critical condition in Grove Street, on the corner with Fore Street, at 12.20am on Sunday, June 1.

The victim, who had been stabbed in the stomach, was taken to an east London hospital and died shortly afterwards.

FACE OF ENFIELD

Chosen trio have the winning look

THE phone lines have closed, the votes have been counted and we are delighted to announce whom you have chosen as the winners of the Face of Enfield competition.

The competition, run in conjunction with Pure Hair and Beauty, in Windmill Hill, Enfield, and Pearsons department store, in Church Street, Enfield, saw nine finalists selected for three categories – classic, funky and men's.

And after ten days of voting, you have chosen Amee Patel, of Southbury Road, Enfield, as the winner of the classic category. She was styled with her shoulder-length hair worn down, with a backwards curl at the front.

For the funky category, voters selected Lisa Turner, of Kimberley Gardens, Enfield, for the top prize.

That was after Pearsons' make-up artists adorned her with floral eyelashes and Pure's hairdressers scooped her long locks into a ribbon-style bow.

Doug Lawrence, of Derby Road, Ponders End, won the men's category, with his neatly styled hair and light stubble.

Tas Panteli, owner of Pure Hair and Beauty, who will be using the winners' images in the salon's marketing material, said: "Congratulations to all the winners – I am really pleased with the outcome.

"All the finalists were great, everyone was different in their own way – I would have been happy to have any of them on our material.

"The competition has been great fun, there's been a real buzz around the salon with people enquiring about the finalists and the winners."

The winners will receive a share of £200 worth of Pearsons vouchers, a bag of goodies from Pure and a framed 10x8 photograph of their winning entry at a presentation event on Monday.

Poker man is jailed

A MAN found guilty of laundering money through an illegal poker den will spend 15 months behind bars.

Ahmet Melin, 33, of Cowles, Cheshunt, was jailed at Wood Green Crown Court last week for his links to an illegal poker den in Palmers Green. He had been found guilty at the same court on April 10.

Melin was brought to book after Enfield Council's licensing enforcement and trading standards teams, the Gambling Commission and the Metropolitan Police raided the Big Bluff private members' club in Green Lanes in September 2012 and found it was a front for an illegal poker club.

Commercial poker games need a casino licence and the council's policy is not to issue such permits.

The club, which has since been closed down, was found to be staging large poker tournaments, the proceeds of which were illegal, while Melin was withdrawing money from the club for his own purposes.

Labour spokesman for environment Chris Bond said: "Enfield Council took swift and decisive action when we found out the Big Bluff private members' club was a front for an illegal poker den.

"This prosecution sends out the very clear message that we do not tolerate any illegal gambling in this borough. We will continue to take firm action against anyone stupid enough to break the law in Enfield."

Nick Tofiluk, the Gambling Commission's director of regulatory operations, said: "This is an excellent example of how a local authority with Gambling Commission support is dealing with illegal gambling in whatever guise it is presented.

"The message is simple – if you offer poker in a club and are breaking the law, action can and will be taken."

World Cup drink drive warning

FOOTBALL fans have been warned not to be caught inadvertently drink driving the morning after a match.

Enfield Council has issued the advice before the World Cup kicks off tomorrow.

With the tournament taking place in Brazil and matches starting between 5pm and 2am – England's group game against Italy on Saturday begins at 11pm – the council is warning that anyone who has been drinking alcohol while watching a game could still be over the limit the following morning.

It warned that it can take the body up to three hours to break down the alcohol in an average pint of beer or a large glass of wine.

Chris Bond, Labour's spokesman for environment, said: "Our serious message is that drink affects how we can see and think clearly and alters our perceptions by reducing our judgement, so we are unable to react to danger or spot hazards."

Anyone prosecuted is automatically banned from driving by the courts and can receive further punishments, depending on the severity of the offence.

In a bid to drive home the message, the council is staging an event in Palace Gardens shopping precinct, in Church Street, Enfield Town, between 10am and 3pm on Saturday.

People will be invited to try and save a goal while wearing vision-impairment goggles. Anyone who does will win a small football, while stocks last.

Mayor Chaudhury hangs up his chain

He's also retiring after a decade as a councillor

By Koos Couvee

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

MAYOR Chaudhury Anwar has retired as both mayor and a councillor after performing his last mayoral duty at a D-Day commemoration event in Winchmore Hill on Friday.

Mr Anwar, 76, who stepped down after a ten-year tenure as a Labour councillor for Ponders End ward, told the Advertiser that he would remain active within the borough's voluntary sector.

Speaking at an event at Reardon Court, in Cosgrove Close – a supported housing scheme run by Enfield Council – to commemorate the 1944 D-Day invasion, the outgoing mayor said the past 12 months had been “exciting”.

He said: “I have met so many great people and I will continue working with them. It has been an exciting and very enjoyable year.

“I will continue to be involved in the voluntary sector, particularly within the black and minority ethnic community in Ponders End.”

Mr Anwar said that he had always intended to resign as a councillor this year, in order to fully commit himself to the voluntary work he has been doing in the borough since 1983, when he first moved to Enfield and headed up the Racial Equality Council.

Since then he has acted as chairman of a raft of voluntary organisations including North London Asian Care, the Bangladesh Welfare Association of Enfield, Enfield Voluntary Action and the Ponders End Community Development Trust.

Mr Anwar said he would now focus on getting more people from ethnic minorities into work, the voluntary sector and politics.

He added: “People from black and minority ethnic communities are not getting involved in the mainstream enough and that worries me.

“As people from the black Caribbean and Asian communities we are still not seen very much in public life and in important positions.

“But the fact is we are all part of the same community. I believe there is only one future and that is one of togetherness – without that there is no future.”

A new mayor will be elected at a full council meeting tonight.

Honolulu on the Hill!

After more than half a century, the Rose Fayre organisers thought it would be fun to have a Hawaiian theme for this year's event in Forty Hill, Enfield. The chair of the parent teacher association of Forty Hill School, Marina Zucconi said “After the great success of last year's circus we wanted something else to grab everyone's attention and we think we've succeeded. Visitors will need to be prepared for a totally tropical afternoon!”

As well as Lei Aloha, the UK's leading Polynesian Dance Company, a group of beautiful hula dancers, there are some really original attractions. There will be a surfboard simulator on which you can enjoy the thrills and spills of the high waves (without getting wet of course), as much fun for spectators as it is for the rider waiting for that moment of wipe-out! A jet ski ride, paddle boats in a “pacific ocean”, a Hawaiian rock face to climb, a super high slide and hopefully a beach. This will all be set to the wonderful sound of steel pans, provided by Broomfield School.

The event takes place in the beautiful secluded meadow in between Forty Hill School and Jesus Church and despite its exotic theme, the day will retain its Country Fayre feel that local residents love. All the old favourites such as home-made tea and cake, tombolas and a grand raffle (with some excellent prizes) will be at the fayre, all at very affordable prices, with some quirkier stalls, such as plate smashing! Some fantastic stall holders have signed up, so there will be a chance to browse and possibly find something really unique to buy.

One of the most special things about this year's Rose Fayre is the amount of young local talent that is scheduled to play on stage, including Ellamore, Maria Evangelou and some new, very talented young Enfield singer/songwriters. After the attractions have finished at 4pm, the bar, food and music will continue into the early evening with “While the Cat's Away” jazz band and the award winning “Raw Deal” playing. The entrance fee has been reduced to £1.50 for adults, with nothing to pay for concessions and children. This looks set to be a bargain for what has turned out to be a mini music festival!

Everyone is welcome at this community event and the organisers have worked hard to make sure there's something for everyone! Make sure you turn up at 12pm to receive your free Hawaiian Lei garland and a warm welcome from the hula girls.

All profits go to Forty Hill School. Please go to www.fortyhillfunday.co.uk for more details.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Forty winks per day is the secret to Irene's 100 years

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AFTERNOON naps could be the real elixir of life, according to the daughter of the borough's latest centenarian.

Irene Gilbert, who was born in Hackney on June 4, 1914, celebrated her 100th birthday last Wednesday at Springview Care Home, in Crescent Road, Enfield, surrounded by relatives, including five of her nine great-grandchildren.

Irene left east London with her family when she was a child and moved north out into the leafy suburbia of Enfield, where she settled down and brought up her own children after meeting her husband, John, in 1938.

And even when she was raising her two children, Elaine and Howard, Irene always made sure to sneak in a catnap during the day – a habit her daughter is convinced is the secret to her healthy longevity.

After John passed away in 1971, the former bank clerk and dinner lady moved briefly to Cuffley before returning to Enfield, where she lived independently in her own flat into her 90s – moving into Springview when she was 93.

Along with the balloons and cake heralding her century, her daughter added that Irene was thrilled with a telegram from the Queen, which was the icing on the cake of all the celebrations.

"She kept telling the residents, 'I'm having a party, you know' – and the staff at Springview were fantastic with what they did for us," Elaine told the Advertiser.

"They put on a lovely spread. She absolutely loves it there. She loves her room, gets on well with the staff and loves socialising with the other residents."

Ton of fun: Irene Gilbert celebrated her 100th birthday last week with her daughter Elaine

Artists throw open doors to the public

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of people flocked to Palmers Green and Southgate last weekend for the annual Open Studios and Art Trail.

Artists and sculptors opened their studios to the public, while visitors were also able to view works in shop windows and on street walls.

As well as pieces by 44 artists, many from London and some from further afield, including Ireland, there were arts and crafts workshops for adults and children.

Karl Sweeny, who designs and makes bespoke tambour wooden boxes for jewellery, watches and rings, came all the way from Dublin to showcase his work.

He said: "This is a wonderful event and a great opportunity for me. For these boxes, I use very fine wood such as sycamore, pear and wenge, which is sourced from west Africa.

"I buy the wood roughly cut from a saw mill and start with rough pieces and machine them. The bigger ones take around 35 hours to make and cost £1,200."

For sculptor Clare Roels, who only took up her craft six years ago, it was the first time she exhibited at the event – now in its third year.

She said: "I started using bicycle wheels, that's sort of my niche thing. I left college one day, saw the London Eye and that's where I got the idea.

"I like using it instead of a canvas as a way of expressing what I feel and think about.

"I worked as a counsellor before and that experience is a valuable source of inspiration."

Helen Kaminsky, who works from her home studio in Crouch End, had a number of works on display at Extraordinary Design, in Chase Road, Southgate.

The "mixed media artist" said: "I use aquarelle and water-based paints and a lot of collage.

"I am very pleased to be here again. I try to keep my work affordable – all the paintings cost around £200."

Organiser Dan Maier, who designs bespoke artwork and installations for interiors, added: "We had more artists than last year. It's exciting because there was a huge amount of high-quality work on display again."

Having a laugh: Actor George Georgiou is one of the driving forces behind the new venue

Comedians hit the road to Edinburgh

By Kim Inam

kim.inam@nlhnews.co.uk

CROUCH End's newest arts venue is building on its budding success by hosting a series of warm-up events for the Edinburgh Fringe Festival.

After opening just three months ago, under the stewardship of actor George Georgiou and director Sam Neophytou, Arthouse, in Tottenham Lane, has already become a popular venue in north London, showcasing the work of artists, as well as streaming live productions by the Royal Shakespeare Company and music concerts.

Now the venue, which has one cinema screen and a theatre space which can be used as a second screen, is hosting 20 acts before the annual festival.

The series begins at 8pm on Monday with Zoe Lyons and Loretta Main. Entry to the gig is £12.50 – a fraction of the price of a ticket in Edinburgh.

"Comedy is a big part of what we do," George told the Advertiser. "Comedians want to practise their shows in small venues that are quite established, as we are. We try and put on what local people put on and bring to us. Crouch End is full of performers, film-makers and artists."

"We are not a community centre, the quality we put on has to be top-notch. We can't just promote everyone locally."

George and his business partner established themselves as a production company five years ago, putting on fringe theatre, and had decided they needed a venue of their own when they came across the Music Palace building, which would be too big for just a theatre space.

The ten-gig stretch offers audiences two acts a night, including Sara Pascoe and Rob Rouse on June 23, Luisa Omeilan and Shirley & Shirley on July 13. It concludes on July 28 with John Robbins and Patrick Monahan.

For more information, visit www.art.housecrouchend.co.uk or call 020 8245 3099. The Edinburgh Fringe Festival runs from August 1 to 25.

Theatre festival proves a sun-drenched success

THE air was filled with music and excitement as the first strains of jazz spilled out of Chickenshed theatre's bar on Sunday morning.

Hundreds of visitors descended on Chase Side, Southgate, for the inclusive theatre's inaugural arts festival, touring the venue, taking in some sounds and enjoying a bite to eat under the glorious sunshine in the amphitheatre.

The event, run in conjunction with Enfield Council, saw children and parents from Ponders End brought by coach to the Chickenshed by the local authority and included talks by the theatre's co-founders and a treasure hunt with Captain Hook, as well as performances by Skewbald Theatre and musicians.

Jo Collins, theatre co-founder, said: "What a fantastic event. Thank you so much for all who helped to make this first Chickenshed-Enfield Council Summer Festival such a huge success.

"Even the weather was on our side and it was so brilliant to see people from across our beautiful borough come together to celebrate the arts.

"Many thanks to everyone who came, all the amazing performers and all those who worked tirelessly back stage to not only celebrate Chickenshed's 40th anniversary, but also to show that we are living in a creative paradise."

WORLD CUP BRAZIL 2014

THIS year's FIFA World Cup in Brazil is the 20th in the competition's 84-year history – and the first time that successive tournaments have been held outside Europe.

The most prestigious prize in international football has been won by just eight different teams during all that time – and at the top of that list with five is this year's host nation.

Brazil 2014 will by far be the most expensive World Cup ever, with costs already around the $16billion mark due to stadium renovation and construction, boosting transport links and stringent security.

In a country where poverty is rife, the high costs have left many Brazilians furious, with violent street protests marring the tournament build-up.

Holders Spain will be looking to achieve an unprecedented double double, after they successfully defended their European Championships title in 2012. However, as a European team has never won the competition in Latin and South America, the odds would appear to be stacked against Vicente del Bosque's men.

The action gets under way tomorrow when Brazil take on Croatia in São Paulo, and from then 32 nations will compete through their relevant group stages to the knockout rounds until just two are left standing to do battle on Sunday, July 13, at the Maracanã Stadium, in Rio de Janeiro.

Many hopes will rest with England, who face difficult group matches against Italy and Uruguay before taking on the supposedly easier Costa Rica.

But by the time of that third group match on Tuesday, June 24, unless results have gone our way, England's World Cup campaign could already be over.

This will be the first World Cup tournament to utilise goal-line technology – something England could have done with four years ago in South Africa after Frank Lampard's "goal" against Germany was disallowed by a referee and assistant, both of whom must have been dozing!

The tournament promises to be a feast of skill and excitement which will inevitably throw up its stars and maybe even turn some into legends. So keep reading and find out who are the players to watch at Brazil 2014...

WORLD CUP 2014

Classic tournaments

BRAZIL 1950

The last time the finals were held in Brazil the tournament was won by inaugural winners Uruguay, throwing the host nation into mourning.

The 1950 tournament also saw England enter the competition after resolving a dispute with FIFA. But even 64 years ago England were able to frustrate their fans when a team including legends Stanley Matthews, Tom Finney and Billy Wright lost a group match 1-0 to the USA, still one of the greatest upsets in World Cup history.

England failed to qualify from the group stages.

ENGLAND 1966

Our finest moment as we defeated West Germany 4-2 in extra time at Wembley to lift the Jules Rimet Trophy for the only time.

The tournament is also remembered for North Korea's destruction of a powerful Italian side, the sending-off of Argentina's captain Antonio Ratin during a quarter-final which England won 1-0, the dangerous Portugal side featuring Eusebio and a final which has become the stuff of legend with England's contentious third goal, a Geoff Hurst hat-trick and a toothless Nobby Stiles dancing down the touchline as skipper Bobby Moore held the trophy aloft.

MEXICO 1970

The best way to follow the fantastic tournament of four years previously was with arguably the greatest of all the World Cup competitions as Brazil lifted the Jules Rimet Trophy for a third time, thus keeping it forever.

The 1970 tournament had it all – the brilliance of Brazilians Jairzinho, Gérson, Tostão, Rivelino, the sheer genius of Pele, the greatest ever player, making his final World Cup appearance, and a quarter-final rerun of the 1966 final in which one crazy decision by manager Sir Alf Ramsey – the substitution of Bobby Charlton to "rest him for the semi-final" – led to England squandering a two-goal lead as Franz Beckenbauer, Uwe Seeler and Gerd Muller, in extra time, sent us packing.

The final saw Brazil overwhelm Italy 4-1 in the Azteca Stadium with a display of artistry that has never been surpassed.

WEST GERMANY 1974

Two names shone out in 1974, German captain Franz Beckenbauer and Dutch maestro Johan Cruyff – and they met in a final refereed by Englishman Jack Taylor.

The Dutch were expected to win with their "total football" and got off to a great start with a Johan Neeskens penalty before the Germans had even touched the ball.

But it was to be the Germans' day thanks to goals from Paul Breitner and Gerd Müller.

SPAIN 1982

Italy claimed their third World Cup after beating West Germany 3-1 in the final.

But it was the match between the eventual winners and Brazil in the second group stage which proved the tournament's highlight.

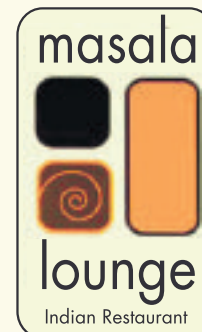

Despite being camped around the Italian area for much of the game, the South Americans lost 3-2, with Paolo Rossi – who claimed six goals during the competition to finish as top scorer – hitting a hat-trick.

ITALY 1990

A tournament best remembered for Gazza's tears in the semi-final, rather than the final, which was won by West Germany.

The ill-tempered second-round tie between the eventual winners and the Netherlands offered the tournament's most notorious moment, with Dutch defender Frank Rijkaard clearly seen on TV spitting into Rudi Völler's curly hair, after he was booked for hacking the German forward down, and again as they left the pitch after both were sent off.

Home Made Fresh Meals

Vadi Restaurant was established in 2011 and it is a fully licensed, air conditioned restaurant with a refrigerated display of raw kebabs, a steaming sizzling ocak grill, a hot table laden with simmering stews and braises. Hot pide and sac breads accompany starters of lentil soup or garlicky cacick, and ezme is a winning dish of roasted aubergine mashed with olive oil, fresh tomato, green herbs and hot pepper. Vadi Restaurant has a capacity of 220 people.

As one of the most famous Ocakbasi restaurants in London we also have private function rooms available and cater for single, couples and families. Vadi Restaurant is a true open grill restaurant (ocakbasi). It is a friendly place, a world away from the average kebab house and everything on the menu is fresh and served daily.

Our winning formula is fresh marinated meats, fish and vegetables skewered and grilled over hot charcoals in our Ocakbasi open kitchen. Our freshly baked bread puts the finishing touch to the great atmosphere of Vadi Restaurant.

We accept all major credit cards. Find us on Facebook and Twitter.

WORLD CUP 2014

Managers hoping to make a mark

ENGLAND Roy Hodgson

Hodgson, right, is one of the most experienced coaches in the game at both club and international level as he has also managed Switzerland, Finland and the UAE.

He is still considered a hero in Sweden after his success with club side Malmö, leading them to consecutive titles from 1985 to 1989.

At 64, Hodgson was the oldest man to be appointed England manager – but under his guidance England rose to third in the FIFA world rankings, their highest position since they were introduced.

England are drawn in one of the toughest groups with Italy, Uruguay and Costa Rica and so qualification to the knockout rounds will not be an easy task.

NETHERLANDS Louis van Gaal

The 62-year old is in his second spell as Dutch coach and will take the reins as Manchester United manager as soon as the Dutch team's tournament finishes.

Van Gaal is known for his flexibility regarding formations and is a strong advocate of attacking football. Holland are a different side to the losing finalists in South Africa, who won few friends with their brutal approach.

BRAZIL Luis Felipe Scolari

The former Portugal and Chelsea boss carries the expectations of an entire nation on his shoulders as anything less than victory will be unacceptable on home turf.

Having already coached a World Cup winning side in 2002, he is no stranger to success or the pressure of needing to achieve for a country which lives, eats and breathes football.

However, Scolari is fully aware that this Brazilian side is a work in progress. He has some talented players at his disposal, such as Neymar and Oscar, but defensively and in goal, Brazil look vulnerable.

SPAIN Vicente del Bosque

One of the most successful international managers in the game's history, del Bosque has led Spain to success in the European Championships and the World Cup.

They are now aiming to achieve a double double by defending their world crown in addition to their successful defence of the 2012 Euros – after which del Bosque was named FIFA World Coach of the Year.

Spain will almost certainly need to finish top of Group B if they are to avoid meeting Brazil in the last 16.

ARGENTINA Alejandro Sabella

Sabella's key task has been trying to get the sort of form out of Lionel Messi at international level that he consistently produces for Barcelona. The answer seems to be just letting him do what he wants.

Argentina's defence looks vulnerable, with both centre-backs inexperienced, while goalie Sergio Romero struggles with crosses. But they will always score goals to compensate.

The players most likely to shine

EVERY World Cup creates its heroes, and this year there are more players than ever with the potential to set the competition alight. In some cases, it's a chance to finally live up to their reputations on the world stage.

Cristiano Ronaldo PORTUGAL

After dragging his country almost single-handedly to the finals late in the day at the expense of play-off opponents Sweden, the Portuguese captain is central to his country's hopes in these finals.

Ronaldo, right, is not one to be tortured by feelings of self-doubt and is certainly one of the top three players in the world at the moment. Such is his influence on the side that even if the other ten players didn't turn up, you wouldn't bet on Portugal losing.

Edin Džeko BOSNIA-HERZEGOVINA

Often seen as Manchester City's third choice forward, the Bosnian attacker has had a great domestic season as Alvaro Negredo hit a goal drought and Sergio Aguero was sidelined by a host of injuries.

Džeko is Bosnia's highest scorer of all time, ten of those goals coming in the qualifying rounds as his country reached its first major international tournament.

Luis Suarez URUGUAY

Controversy follows Suarez like a bad cold, but this season saw a complete turnaround in fortunes on a scale of redemption not seen since Eric Cantona post kung-fu kick.

The Liverpool striker mesmerised us with skills that made him the Premier League's top scorer and the players' and football writers' choice for Footballer of the Year – and his season began six games later than everyone else due to suspension.

With Sweden's Zlatan Ibrahimovic absent from these finals, the stage is set for someone to take our breath away and dazzle us with his brilliance.

This could finally be Suarez's time...and, for once, for the right reasons, depending on that knee injury, of course.

Wayne Rooney ENGLAND

World Cups have not been the happiest of times for Wazza so far in his career.

The newly highest paid player in the Premier League, at a cool £300,000 a week, Rooney, right, needs to stay free of injury in the run-up to the finals if he is to stand any chance of showing his full potential on the world stage.

An on-form Rooney is England's greatest asset. His skills on the ground and in the air could see us through one of the toughest groups to at least the quarter-finals if he can just keep well and avoid any moments of red card madness.

Mario Balotelli ITALY

Like Marmite, you either love him or hate him, but one thing is for sure – you can't ignore Balotelli. The former Manchester City star can leave a lasting impression on any match, but this is just as likely to be from an act of gross stupidity as from a piece of stunning brilliance.

He showed superb form at Euro 2012 and was Italy's top scorer in the qualifiers for this competition. But whether magic Mario or mad Mario turns up remains to be seen.

Lionel Messi ARGENTINA

While Cristiano Ronaldo and Zlatan Ibrahimovic both loudly proclaim themselves to be the world's best player, Barcelona hitman Messi takes that title. But on the international stage, Messi, right, has come nowhere near his achievements at club level.

He failed to make any real impression at the World Cups in 2006 and 2010, but now as captain of the side and after showing stunning form in the qualifiers, this could at last be the moment for him to cement his reputation and take his place alongside legends such as Zinedine Zidane, Johan Cruyff, Bobby Charlton and Pele.

Yaya Touré IVORY COAST

Manchester City's Yaya Touré has been consistently brilliant for his club side this year with a scoring rate normally expected of an attacker rather than a midfielder. Touré is deadly from set pieces and any team giving away a free-kick just outside the penalty area will be tempting fate because Yaya rarely misses.

He will also, no doubt, be seen as one of the main providers for Didier Drogba, who has been enjoying a new lease of life at Turkish side Galatasaray.

Just don't forget to wish him a happy birthday.

Eden Hazard BELGIUM

After criticising his manager's team tactics, he may not be Jose Mourinho's favourite person at the moment, but judging by his form for Chelsea this season, Hazard could be one of the tournament's stars.

Whether playing centrally or on the wing, Hazard is one of those rare players who poses a threat the instant he has the ball at his feet.

With his superb close ball skills, he can take on defenders in tight situations and is capable of scoring some spectacular goals.

Neymar BRAZIL

With the World Cup being held in Brazil, the football-mad nation will be expecting nothing other than success.

And the host nation's hopes will be pinned firmly on the back of their number 10, who is starting to dazzle in a Brazil shirt after some lacklustre international displays.

The 22-year-old has upped his game since playing alongside Lionel Messi at Barcelona. Internationally, he plays in a more free role and his pace, dribbling and goal-scoring ability will make him a handful for defences.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968 and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'IT' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisement and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified lease and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 - (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 - (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement (advertisement) should the appointed agent fail to pay for the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for settling the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

X marks a refined spot

By Matt Joy

THE most important SUV in the Nissan range is the Qashqai, but its bigger brother the X-Trail has arrived in an all-new form to serve those looking for something more sizeable.

From the completely redesigned exterior, to the new engines and chassis, this X-Trail aims to offer a more refined drive and better on-road performance than the more utilitarian approach of the old car.

In fact, the new X-Trail owes a lot to the Qashqai as it uses the same platform and mechanicals. The key difference, however, is size, with a longer wheelbase and greater length creating more space and room for seven seats.

It is a game of spot the difference for the X-Trail and the smaller Qashqai. Put them side by side and you will see where they diverge, but that familiarity is no bad thing.

The old X-Trail was an undeniably boxy affair. The new one is slick, modern and attractive. It still looks tough and has the raised ride height, but it is a much classier car that can cut it with the posh boys.

You don't fully appreciate just how large the X-Trail is until you step inside. Up front, there's generous head and legroom and in the second row the space is impressive.

The seats can slide forwards or backwards to suit needs. The third row folds into place easily and while you wouldn't want to shove an adult in there for too long, it's ideal for children.

Behind the wheel, another important feature on the X-Trail is a new 1.6-litre diesel engine that is likely to be the most popular engine choice.

Despite its relatively small capacity, it offers the same torque as the outgoing 2.0-litre diesel unit but with far superior emissions and economy figures. It doesn't feel underpowered either. It's not fast, but it's quick enough with 0-62mph taking 10.5 seconds.

The X-Trail's transformation is completed by the ride quality and all-round refinement.

Where the old car always reminded you of its off-road capability, the new X-Trail is composed over poor surfaces and is easy to drive with accurate steering and slick controls.

It's not a car to be hurled through bends, but it is safe and faithful should you choose to do so.

All versions are packed with equipment. The entry-level Visia model comes with air conditioning, six airbags, LED daytime running lights and Bluetooth connectivity as standard, as well as those all-important seven seats.

Move up the range and you will find large, machined alloy wheels, a powered tailgate and luxurious leather trim, but the mid-range models have everything you need and more.

The X-Trail has the kind of flexibility and appeal to suit a broad range of customers. Families will love its ability to swallow children and luggage with ease and the fact they can bring their mates along will be well received.

On the other hand if you're one of those "active lifestyle" people you can jam it full of bicycles and surfboards – and in four-wheel drive guise it would make a good towing car, too.

DAWSON LOOKING TO STAY AT SPURS

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

CAPTAIN Michael Dawson insists that he wants to remain at Tottenham Hotspur despite speculation linking him with a move away from the club over the summer.

The central defender has been with Spurs for more than nine years and has made over 300 first-team appearances, but several other Premier League clubs have reportedly shown interest in signing him ahead of next season.

However, Dawson – who has a year left on his current contract – has revealed that he wants to stay at White Hart Lane and make his mark under new head coach Mauricio Pochettino.

“I’ve been at Tottenham for nine-and-a-half years,” he said. “It’s a great club and I’ve loved every minute of it while I’ve been here.

“The fans have been superb to me since day one, because I’ve had some ups and downs like everyone does.

“The expectations are high and the players want to achieve them. We want to be in the top four, and hopefully next year we’ll have another push.”

Meanwhile, Tom Carroll is also hoping to impress Pochettino after returning to Spurs having spent last season on loan at Queens Park Rangers.

The England under-21 international midfielder made 26 appearances for QPR last time around – although he did not feature in their play-off final victory – and hopes that he will be able to force his way into contention for a place in Tottenham’s starting line-up.

“I’m going back to Spurs and will try to impress pre-season,” he said. “Being at Queens Park Rangers was a positive, and to go up at the end was the icing on the cake.

“But no player would just want to sit on the bench or in the stands. Everyone wants to play. I’ll be back at Spurs and hopefully I can do it there. If not, then we’ll see.”

□ Tottenham goalkeeper Hugo Lloris is optimistic that France will make a big impact at the World Cup, which gets under way tomorrow.

Lloris will captain the French, who rounded off their preparations by beating Jamaica 8-0 on Sunday, in the tournament – and he is relishing the prospect of taking part in the event.

“We are looking forward to it,” he said. “We’ll enjoy it, but we want to be competitive as well so we will go with ambition and with respect for our opponents.

“I think the first goal is to go through from the group stage. After that it’s the last 16 and it’s effectively another tournament because you only play one game, so it’s very open and anything could happen.”

And fellow keeper Brad Friedel has signed a new one-year contract with Spurs.

Happy at the Lane: Michael Dawson wants to stay at Tottenham Hotspur

Sprinter Ujah breaks ten-second barrier

YOUNG sprinter Chijindu Ujah produced a spectacular performance over the weekend to become just the fifth Briton ever to break the ten-second barrier for the 100metres.

Competing at the FBK Games in Hengelo, Holland, on Sunday, the 20-year-old from Enfield and Haringey Athletic Club went into the race with a personal best of 10.17seconds.

However, he smashed that time with a stunning run of 9.96secs – which saw him climb up to third behind Linford Christie and James Dasaolu in the British all-time list – as he finished second to Barbados’ Richard Thompson.

“I did have a feeling something like this was coming,” he said. “My group has been training well and we are all on form. I knew what type of shape I was in when I ran 10.17secs in Loughborough three weeks ago. “I’m still in shock. It hasn’t sunk in. I’ve been getting lots of messages from family and friends and seen it all on Twitter. It makes me happy.

“I knew Richard was in form and for me to make him dip, I knew that we must have gone fast.”

Ujah’s time was a United Kingdom under-23 record and also ranks him fifth in the world this year, but his run is likely to have come too late to secure a spot in the England team for the forthcoming Commonwealth Games as it came a week after the cut-off.

The sprinter first made his mark when he reached the final of the 100m at the 2012 World Junior Championships, and last year saw him secure the European Junior 100m title.

Meanwhile, the senior women’s team at Enfield and Haringey won the latest round of Division One of the United Kingdom Women’s League in Derby on Sunday to extend their lead at the top of the table.

But the men’s team had to settle for sixth place in their meeting in the Premier Division of the British Athletics League in Birmingham on Saturday.

Comfortable win sees Highgate go top

HIGHGATE romped to an eight-wicket win at home to Kenton on Saturday to go top of Division Three of the Middlesex County Cricket League.

Craig Gourlay (6-39) produced a stunning spell of bowling to destroy the Kenton batting as the visitors were dismissed for just 130.

Chasing a small target, Jake Sharland (67 not out) took control from the start of the hosts’ reply, and William Russell (43 not out) joined him in an unbroken stand of 68 for the third wicket as they cruised to 133-2.

Elsewhere in Division Three, North London suffered a six-wicket defeat at home to Barnes – seeing their visitors ease to 137-4 after they had been bowled out for 134.

Meanwhile, top flight action saw Hornsey and North Middlesex both secure winning draws from their matches against Finchley and Richmond respectively.

Hornsey shrugged off the loss of two early wickets to dominate the remainder of their clash at Finchley, with Adam Rossington (106) and Michael Philipson (89) sharing a third-wicket partnership of 195 to help guide them to a total of 252-5.

Philipson then shone with the ball, taking 5-35 as Finchley struggled in reply, but their lower order held firm to stave off defeat as they closed on 144-8.

North Middlesex were forced to bat first in their home match against Richmond, and they produced a solid effort to amass 215-5.

Some fine bowling from Joel Hughes (4-44) ensured that the visitors never looked like reaching their target in a rain-shortened contest, with Joe Smith (46) top-scoring as they closed on 143-7.

Hornsey host Hampstead on Saturday, while North Middlesex visit Stanmore, Highgate go to Ickenham and North London make the trip to Harrow Town.
